Koji moved to the UK in 1994 to pursue his academic interests in business and management. On completion of an English Foundation Program, he undertook a BSc (Econ) in Business Studies at Aberystwyth University followed by an MBA at the School of Management and Business.

Since graduating, Koji has returned to Japan to develop his career in business and has worked in a variety of roles including marketing, sales and logistics for a range of leading companies. His degree and Masters Degree have proved to be an excellent foundation for Koji's career development as he now works as a Logistics Manager for Panalpina World Transport Company.

Koji currently lives in Chiba with his wife, Kiwako, also an Aber graduate, and their two children.

"I really enjoyed studying at Aber. My first degree in Business Studies taught me the key principles of business development and I was able to focus on my interest areas of marketing and supply chain management. I enjoyed being at Aber so much I chose to extend my stay and study for an MBA at the University.

Aberystwyth is a fantastic place to be, I met my wife who is also Japanese whilst studying at Aber. Both of us have very fond memories of the University, the people we met and the town. We would love to return to Wales to show our daughters where we met and give them a taste of our extraordinary experiences."
