

George Jones

George Jones has been on the staff of Mercator Media since 1991 and is editor of the centre's annual journal Mercator Media Forum. The Forum first appeared in 1995 and seeks to promote discussion and the flow of information between those who work in the media of the minority languages of Europe and those who deal with same from an academic point of view. He has delivered numerous papers on minority media issues including the following:

Jones, George (1999); Minority Languages and Cultures in the Face of Globalisation, presented at 'Media in Multicultural and Multilingual Contexts' workshop at the University of Klagenfurt 11-14 November

Jones, George (1999); Systems of Press Subsidy for Minority Languages, presented at a meeting of the Department for National Minority Affairs of the Austrian Federal Chancellery, Vienna; November

Jones, George (2001); Linguistic Minorities and Audiovisual Translation, presented at "Lis lenghis tal cine: dopleadure, sottituzion, difusion/ Le lingue nel cinema: doppiaggio, sottotitolatura, diffusione" (Languages in the cinema: dubbing, subtitling, distribution), Udine, Italy; May

Jones, George (2001); The State and the Global Marketplace in the Provision of Minority Media Services, keynote address at the annual conference of the Foundation for Endangered Languages in Agadir, Morocco; September

Jones, George (2002); 'Die walisichsprachigen Medien von Wales', in Pogrom, Gesellschaft für Bedrohte Völker

Jones, George (2002) Viewers, Citizens and Consumers – Minorities in the Media Marketplace at the 4th Languages and Media Conference, Berlin, 4-6 December