PHT. (...produced through the upper teeth and lower lip, and resembled the sound produced by the backfire of a motor or the bursting of a tyre.)

The 'Yell' had its origin from a desire on the part of those responsible for guiding the affairs of Aber students during the year 1905, that there should be some 'vocal' means by which Aber students might give vent to their expression of approval of the efforts of their representatives at the Inter-College matches, and afterwards at all gatherings of students.
