

Working Safely

Aberystwyth University is delighted to be able to offer the acclaimed IOSH Working Safely Training Course. Everyone at work should have an understanding of why they must work safely, and this course offers exactly that.

Delegates for the IOSH Working Safely training course will benefit from:

- A nationally recognised one-day course which considers the fundamentals of health and safety;
- High quality animated graphics created by IOSH exclusively for the course;
- Strong group involvement and discussion;
- Jargon and legal-free content based on what people should know;
- Scenarios drawn from genuine work situations to reinforce points;
- Assessments built into the day's training, to minimise additional disruption to work time.

What will delegates get?

- An informal learning environment supervised by experienced health and safety practitioners;
- A focus on what individuals need to know;
- A focus on the importance of health and safety, and how individuals can improve safety by changing their behaviour.

What will employers get?

- Nationally recognised and respected certificated training for their teams;
- Training that's designed and quality-controlled by the Chartered body for health and safety, and delivered by local experts;
- Minimal disruption to working days, as the one-day programme includes all assessments;
- Consideration of two key areas – health and safety and environmental fundamentals.

Content:

1. Introducing Working Safely – Introducing the realities of human suffering and emphasising the importance of personal responsibility.
2. Defining Hazard and Risk –Focus on hazards and risks experienced in the work environments, with a focus on the six main hazard groups.
3. Identifying Common Hazards – An analysis of the main categories, which include slips, trips and falls and manual handling.
4. Improving Safety and Performance –encouraging delegate involvement in processes that are often seen as the exclusive responsibility of managers or supervisors.
5. Protecting our Environment - An introduction to waste and pollution which considers how individuals and organisations can reduce their environmental impact.
