The Personal Statement

The Personal Statement is the applicant's opportunity to explain why they're suited to the courses they've applied for. For some students, it can be the trickiest part of the UCAS application. However, schools and colleges will have Advisers that can support learners to compile a great Personal Statement.

How do universities use the Personal Statement?

Alongside predicted grades and the academic reference, it is a key part of the decision-making process.

It may be the basis for interview, and the difference between getting an offer or not.

It may even be reviewed again at results time if an applicant hasn't quite met the conditions of their offer.

For details on how to write a Personal Statement visit the UCAS website:

www.ucas.com/applying/applying-to-university/writing-your-personal-statement

Top tips for applicants

- The best Personal Statements have been refined and improved over time, so applicants should be prepared to undertake multiple drafts.
- Great Personal Statements have quality, in-depth examples about the applicant, their achievements and suitability rather than lots of undetailed examples without context.
- Applicants should be positive, honest and truthful.

Top tips for parents/guardians/supporters

- Encourage the applicant to consider the skills they've gained from any hobbies, work or volunteering, and how these relate to the course(s) they're applying for.
- Read the applicant's Personal Statement. If you can ask 'So what?' after a sentence, the student may not have gone into enough depth.
- For courses that interview, tutors may have an applicant's Personal Statement in front of them. Make sure the student re-reads their Statement before the interview, and practice interview techniques to help them gain confidence.

What is Clearing?

Clearing runs from July to October, and offers students a final opportunity to apply for a university course beginning that year. Your learner may find themselves in Clearing if:

- They're not holding any offers by the time Clearing starts
- They've changed their mind about the courses / universities they've received offers from
- Their results haven't met the conditions of the offers they're holding.

Clearing can be an anxious time for students but it's important to understand that it should be a positive experience - it's an opportunity to find a course and university that suits them. Schools, colleges and universities will be able to support and guide your learner throughout the process - take a look at UCAS.com and university websites for Clearing guidance, and don't hesitate to ask for help if needed.

A guide to university terminology

Apprenticeships

These allow students to work and study at the same time. Apprenticeships follow an approved study programme leading to nationally recognised qualifications. Students on apprenticeships undertake classroom based learning and gain paid work experience.

Big Welcome and Orientation Week

Big Welcome and Orientation Week are the first weekend and week at university. The University and Students' Union will have arranged a programme of activities to help students make friends, settle in and learn more about what to expect in the coming weeks and months.

Campus

A campus is the grounds where university buildings are located. Aberystwyth is a campus-based University, meaning that academic, social and accommodation sites are within walking distance of one another. Other universities may be more spread out with buildings located throughout a town, city or local area.

Clearing

The Clearing period runs from July to October each year, and offers learners another avenue to secure a place at university that year. Students who aren't holding any offers, whose results didn't meet the conditions of their offers, or who've changed their mind about the course they'd like to study, can apply for a place in Clearing.

Deferred entry

Deferred entry is where an applicant decides they would like to delay starting their university course. For example, they may choose to take some time out for travel or to undertake work experience.

Degree

This is a higher education qualification. A degree can be an undergraduate (Bachelor's) qualification or a postgraduate one such as a Masters, PhD or Doctorate.

Degree apprenticeships

A degree apprenticeship is a part-time course that students follow alongside employment. The government and employer pay for degree apprenticeships.

Firm choice

Universities will reply to a learner's applications either offering them a place or not. Once all universities have replied, the applicant will decide which two offers they prefer best. Their Firm choice is their first choice, with their Insurance choice as back-up.

Further Education

This follows secondary education. Students enrolling on university courses will have FE qualifications, such as A levels, BTECs or Diplomas.

Gap year

Some students may take a year off between school / college and university. A gap year is often spent travelling, working or volunteering.

Graduate

Students completing a degree programme are graduates. They will be invited to an official graduation ceremony where they will be given their degree certificate. Graduation is an important celebration of the hard-work and effort that's gone into their study.

Halls of residence

University provided accommodation is often in halls of residence. Living in halls is an excellent way of making sure students settle into university life.

Higher Education

Higher Education comes after secondary and Further Education, leading to a qualification from a degree-awarding body such as a university.

Insurance choice

From the offers received, this is the applicant's second preference. If they don't meet the conditions of their Firm choice (for example, their results weren't what that offer asked for), they may still meet those of the Insurance choice.

Internships

An internship, or year in industry, is a work placement, allowing the student to gain practical experience related to their degree. Internships / placements can be paid or unpaid.

Postgraduate

This is the name given to a student who has completed their first (undergraduate) degree and is now studying for a higher qualification such as a Master's, a PhD or Doctorate.

Research Degrees

Research degrees are PhDs or Doctorates. They are postgraduate qualifications that involve significant original research and contribute new and innovative findings to the student's subject area.

Scholarships

Scholarships are similar to bursaries and is money awarded to a student that does not have to be paid back. Scholarships are awarded for a range of reasons and it's always worth checking what's available.

Semester

University terms are called semesters. A student has two semesters each year.

Study Abroad

Many courses offer students the opportunity to study abroad as part of their degree. The student will undertake modules at a partner university, providing them with valuable experiences that complement their study.

UCAS Extra

Students that have used all five choices on their original UCAS application and are not holding any offers can add another choice using Extra.

UCAS Hub

The UCAS Hub is one central location where learners can access a wealth of information about the opportunities available to them. They will also log into the Hub to submit their application, view and respond to offers, and add a Clearing choice should they find themselves in Clearing.

UCAS ID

Each UCAS applicant is given a unique 10-digit UCAS identification number. This unique ID allows applicants to log into UCAS Hub to track their applications and will need to be referenced if they contact any universities regarding their application.

UCAS Tariff

UCAS Tariff points convert your qualifications and grades into a numerical value. Many qualifications (but not all) have a UCAS Tariff value, which will vary dependent on the qualification and the grade you achieved. This numerical value is used by universities to assess whether you meet their entry requirements for a particular course.

Fees and finance

We realise that cost of Higher Education is a major consideration for learners and their supporters. Whilst universities charge a similar tuition fee, accommodation and living costs will differ according to location, the type of accommodation on offer and other factors. Aberystwyth's accommodation is amongst the most affordable in the UK, and our rural location generally means a lower cost of living.

Financial support

At Aberystwyth, we offer a generous package of bursaries and scholarships to support our students. Take a look at aber.ac.uk/scholarships for more information.

We also offer first-year undergraduate students a free one year 16-25 Railcard, making travel between home and University more affordable.

Students with disabilities may be eligible for the Disabled Student's Allowance, and an additional grant may be available for travel costs: aber.ac.uk/disability-support

Our Student Support and Careers Services, and Students' Union, can offer students advice on budgeting and where to find part-time work during the holidays or alongside their studies. For more information see:

Choosing a home from home

For many learners, going to university will be their first time living away from home. Choosing to live in university accommodation is often the best way to make sure they settle in and make friends in those first few weeks. Many Welcome activities will be based around student accommodation, and they will be surrounded by other students in the same position as them.

At Aberystwyth, we offer a range of options, including en-suite or shared facilities, catered or self-catered and self-contained studios. Our accommodation is voted amongst the best in the UK, with social and learning spaces on site, and within easy walking distance of the campus, Students' Union, Arts Centre and Sports Centre. Our accommodation fees also include Sports Centre membership, meaning free and unlimited access to all classes and facilities.

We guarantee accommodation to all first-year students and our Halls are amongst the most affordable in the UK.

Please be aware that there are legal restrictions which prevent universities from sharing personal information about students with their parents, guardians or supporters. This means that the University will not normally be able to talk to you about any issues your learner may discuss with us. However, when registering, students are expected to share details of a Trusted Contact who we may contact in specific circumstances. Where there is concern for a student's welfare, we may contact that person.

Accommodation support

In our accommodation, our dedicated team of Residence Assistants (RAs) are fellow students who provide support and guidance, with the aim of creating a positive living and learning environment. If the RAs are unable to help, they will signpost to someone who can.

Careers and employability

We aim to ensure our students graduate with the academic, professional and practical experience to help them stand out in the job market and secure meaningful employment.

Our Careers Service is on-hand to offer support and guidance on developing skills, gaining professional experience and applying for positions.

The Service:

- Provides support in developing CVs, applying for positions and interviewing
- Holds large careers events where students can meet potential employers
- Runs employability workshops and a dedicated Career Readiness Support programme
- Assists students to explore entrepreneurship and enterprise.

Work experience

A number of courses offer an integrated year in industry and students can access the Careers Service's Year in Employment Scheme, both of which provide learners with relevant professional experience that complements their studies. The Service can also assist in identifying shorter-term work experience opportunities, such as summer internships, work placements and part-time employment.

The University has industry links with a range of local, national and international employers, enabling our students to connect with leading employers, across sectors.
